POOR RACING AT SARATOGA.

JOHN A. DRAKE'S CONUNDRUM HAS A WALKOVER.

Surmise Trims Himself, Odds On, in the Handleap-Highlander Easily Disposes of Ducitst, an Overwhelming Favorite -Stroller Provides an Upset-Entries.

SARATOGA, Aug. 7 .-- The racing to-day over a muddy track was of poor quality. The card was made up of six overnight events, in one of which only two horses started and in another, the sixth, John A. Drake's Conundrum had a walkover. But one favorite brought home the talent's money, the defeat of the odds-on choices in the first two events being particularly distressing. Business in the ring has been so far below par that several bookmakers and their clerks left for New

R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Highlander won the first race in remarkable style. He was lightly played at 4 to 1, the wise money going on Frank Farrell's Duelist, at 15 to 20. Redfern got Highlander away at a tremendous clip. The Ben Strome colt had a lead of twenty lengths coming into the stretch, whereupon Redfern pulled him to a walk, taking the race by five lengths from the favorite in 1:20 2-5. Gloriosa was third, two and a half lengths

In the handicap for all ages at a mile and an eighth, Surmise and Himself were the only starters. The latter was the choice at 13 to 20. Himself could not get out of his own way, despite Odom's efforts, and Surmise galloped in front from start to finish, winning by five lengths in 2:10. The talent, in desperation, went strongly to Baseful and Toledo, the choices in the handicap for two-year-olds at five and a half furlongs. R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, colors were again carried to the front by Montreson, S to 1, the Ornament colt beating Fred Gebhard's Golden Drop by five lengths. Toledo was third, four lengths back. The time was 114.

John A. Drake's Vincennes and the Hampton Stable's Setauket divided the attention of the form players in the fourth race, at a mile, both going to the post at 11 to 5. James R. Keene's Birch Broom, with only 90 pounds, was fancied at 7 to 2, but the layers reaped a harvest as Julius Fleischmann's Stroller, the outsider, won in a romp by three lengths. Vincennes beat Setauket a short head for the place.

Vincennes beat Setauket a short head for the place.

Avenger, a good-looking colt by Requital—Madelaine, owned by T. Hitchcock, Jr., took the fifth race, for maiden two year-olds, at five and a half furlongs, rather easily. He was the only successful favorite of the day, going to the barrier at 8 to 5. Dutiful was second, half a length in front of Van Esher. S. S. Brown's Exclamation was left at the post. The time was 116 3-5.

John A. Drake's Conundrum had a walkover in the last race for some soft money. It was a fitting climax to a dull day. Redfern rode two winners.

LEE BROWN RULED OFF. Sockey Club Stewards Meet at Saratoga -Himself's Race Causes Comment.

-Lydia Belle, walked over.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 7 .- After the running of the second race, in which H. J. Morris's Surmise towroped "Father Bill" Daly's Himself in a mile and a furlong race, more ugly talk was heard in the grand stand, betting ring and paddock than has been occasioned by any upset this year. It was reported last night that the stewards held a meeting after the races at which the Himself race was discussed at length and interesting developments are expected. Surmise was very by a Western contingent, including John J. Ryan of St. Louis notoriety. The Daly horse pulled up much distressed and was noticed to be bleeding from the side when led to the stable. Experts who examined the horse said that he had evidently been suffering from an abscess which had broken during the race. It was reported. too, that it required two men to saddle the horse when he was sent to the post, quite contrary to Himself's usual disposition.

During the race and the rest of the afternoon Mr. Daly sat on the steps of the grand stand leading to the reporters' quarters and regaled all inquirers freely with his account of the race. "The horse was all right when I saddled him," said Mr. Daly, "and I bet on him as heavy as I ever bet on any horse. I saddled him." said Mr. Daly, "and I bet on him as heavy as I ever bet on any horse. He pulled up on three legs and I could hardly get him to the stable. I guess he broke down. He never liked this going anyway, and 120 pounds was too much for him.

Mr. Daly was warned recently by the stewards that his entries would be refused unless his horses ran more consistently than they had been doing this senson.

At a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Glub, Trainer Lee Brown and the horse If You Dare were ruled off the turf and the entries of R. H. Brown, owner of If You Dare, were ordered refused hereafter. The ruling was for a violation of rule 162, which has reference to the giving of stimulants to horses and the specific offence alleged occurred at Brighton Beach on July 18 in a race in which If You Dare was sent to the post manifestly in a drugged condition. August Belmont presided at the meeting, the other stewards present being J. H. Bradford, F. R. Hitchcock, H. K. Knapp and Andrew Miller, and the ruling in the Brown case was unanimous. This ends the career on the turf of a most remarkable horse. Lee Brown, moreover, is the second trainer to get into trouble because of his connection with If You Dare. The horse was formerly trained by W. H. Fizer, who was ruled off at New Orleans last winter for the same offence.

The most brilliant assemblage of the season is promised at the track for next Tuesday when William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Foxhall Keene and J. R. Keene are expected to be present for the first time. This day will see the running of the Delaware Handleap, in which the race sharps have expected to see E. E. Smather's Western colt. McChesney present for the first time. This day will see the running of the Delaware Handicap, in which the race sharps have expected to see E. E. Smathers's Western colt McChesney measure strides with Golden Maxim. They will probably be disappointed in this, however, as it is reported that Golden Maxim has not rounded to so rapidly as expected, and will probably not start in that event.

Though there were but four starters in the fifth race to-day, it was reported that more money was wagered than on any race of the year. All four of the starters were very heavily backed by different parties. John A. Drake, "Johnnie" Fay and Joe Ullmann bet on Vincennes, Mr. Drake's gelding, and the aggregate of their wagers was said to have exceeded $30,000. Sol Lichtensein and a clubhouse coterie bet in the neighborhood of $15,000 on James R. Keene's Birch Broom, and Joe Yeager alone bet $5,000 on Setauket, on whom the Tammany delegation also plunged to the extent of $8,000 more. Meanwhile, Stroller's price receded to 5 to 1, at which figure Julius Fleischmann and his friends got aboard for a liberal amount.

Bookmaker William M. Amster of Newark.

N. J., who died suddenly Thursday afternoon, in the Saratoga baths, was for years a living example of the fascination that the racing game exerts upon its devotees, even to the point of death. Amster has fainted three times in the ring since the beginning of the present season, from excitement over the outcome of races. After the third race yesterday be became so prostrated that he had to leave the track. He went to the baths, where he died a few hours later.

to leave the track. He went to the baths, where he died a few hours later.

After the fourth race to-day Harry Payne Whitney, Frederick Gebhard, Sydney Paget, William Fleischmann and others of the club-house set left the track and departed in automobiles for the polo grounds, four miles away. The colo game is nowadays a daily fad that divides with racing the affections of the club-house contingent.

FIRST GAME. The renovation and reformation which the Quakers' game has undergone recently were quakers game has andergone recently and descernible at the Poio Grounds yesterday. They were beaten twice by the New York Nationals, who were the more aggressive of the two. Tim Hurst hove into sight as umpire just before the first game, and the reception given him was a fine one. From all over the stands came applause for him. The Philadelphias got to work quickly in the first game. They took liberties with Mathewson's pitching and made two runs off of three hits as a starter. They scored again in the third inning on a base on balls and a hit, but that was the last time they were in front. In the same inning the New Yorks took to bunting and therewith accomplished the undoing of Duggleby. Duggleby threw one bunted ball to second base when there was nobody there to take the throw and fumbled another. Dooin made a bad throw on a chance for a double play, and there were singles, by Mathewson and Browne and Browne hit safely. not descernible at the Polo Grounds yester-

Taylor pitched a splendid game in the second contest. Only once did the Quakers manifest any tendency to bunch hits, and that was in the sixth inning, when they strung four singles together, after two were out, and made a run. By virtue of Thomas being hit, Gleason's sacrifice, Keister's scratch single and a double steal by Thomas and Keisler, the Quakers scored once in the first inning. This advantage was at once neutralized by the New Yorks, Bresnahan singling and McJann tripling. McJann thought McGraw as coaching him home on the triple and in his disgust when he saw he was caught after turning third, he came to a dead standstill. He looked daggers at McGraw, and the two had a gesticulating match, each trying to convince the other that he—the other—was at fault.

Babb and Dunn went astray on ground hits, but the errors did not matter. On the other hand, Philadelphia's single misplay let in a run. Mertes jostled Mitchell for a single in the fourth inning, Babb planted a three-bagger in the marshy right field, Gilbert walked and Warner singled. The three accruing rups tree augmented by two more in the fifth inning, one single, two bases on balls, a goon steal of third by Browne, a hit batsman and a bad throw to the plate by Hulswitt being the heterogeneous sequence of doings that led to the two tallies.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GAMES. Three Straight and Third Place for the

New Yorks. The New York Americans kept up their fast work in Washington yesterday, and although the Senators have improved considerably of late, the New Yorks beat them three straight and advanced to third place. St. Louis won from Chicago, Detroit vanquished Cleveland, and the Bostons overwhelmed the champions. Results:

NEW YORK (A. L)., 10; WASHINGTON, 4. NEW YORK (A. L)., 10; WASHINGTON, 4. WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The New Yorks had an easy time winning to-day's game from the Washingtons. They batted hard all through the contest. Dunkle showed signs of weakness in the second inning, when a base on balls, a sacrifice and singles by Ganzel and McFarland scored the first run. Dunkle completely collapsed in the fifth inning and was replaced by Orth after Elberfeld's single and three passes to first had forced in a run. Another base on balls and three singles of Orth scored five more runs in this inning, and clinched the game. Howell pitched in good form and held down Washington's run-getting clinched the game. Howell pitched in g form and held down Washington's run-get emarkably well considering that they b remarkably well considering that they ouncined four triples, a double and two singles in three innings. Howell gave five passes to first base, but not one of them figured in the scoring. Griffith left his coaching position in the fifth linning to dispute a close play at first base and was relegated to the bench before he had spoken three words.

SECOND GAME. AT BOCHESTER.

BRITISH WIN IN THE DOUBLES

WRENNS MAKE A STIFF FIGHT, BUT LOSE BY 3 SETS TO 1.

Americans. After Fruitless Efforts to Stem the Thie in the First Two Sets, Make a Grand Brace in the Third-Visitors Need One More Win to Take the Cup.

BOSTON, Aug. 7 .- After twice being postponed on account of rain, the doubles match of the international lawn tennis competition for the Davis challenge bowl was played this afternoon at Longwood, before the largest crowd ever seen at a match in this country As was expected, the American team, which comprised Robert D. Wrenn and George L. Wrenn, Jr., was defeated by the British team, composed of Reginald F. and H. L. Doherty; but it was no disgrace to the losers, for nerty; but it was no disgrate to the local state they were in the game every minute, and it is doubtful if an American team ever existed that could defeat the peerless English pair The winning scores are 7-5, 9-7, 2-6 and 3-3, a glance at which will show the noble effort made by the American players. Fighting every point in the first two sets, the Wrenn brothers began the third determined not to allow the visitors a victory in straight sets. How well they succeeded is told by the score of that set, the Dohertys taking but two of the eight games played.

The strain of the battle was too much for the American players, and while they continued to play flercely through the first two games of the fourth set, winning them both, the effort was too great and the visitors swept them off their feet in the next for four games. Then came another brace, famous with the Wrenns, and they won the seventh games. Then came another brace, tamous with the Wreans, and they won the seventh game at love. But after that the Dohertys had no trouble getting the two games necessary to give them the set and match.

To-day's victory gives the lead to the Englishmen by two matches to one in the buttle for the trophy. Much depends upon to-morrow's singles, when H. L. Doherty plays Champion W. A. Larned and R. F. Doherty goes against Bob Wrenn. The elder Doherty has a weak playing shoulder, a fact plainly noticeable in to-day's contest. One win is all that the English team requires to carry away the trophy, and those who have watched the preliminary work this season are fearful that this will be the result of to-morrow's play.

The conditions for to-day's match were ideal. The sun came out early this morning and dried the champlonship court up splendidly. Bright and early this afternoon the grounds. The Wrenn brothers had some lively practice just before the match was called, having Champion Larned and Holcombe Ward as opponents. R. F. Doherty batted a few back and forth with his brother to get his playing shoulder softened up a little.

to get his playing shoulder softened up a little.

When the match began, the doubles court was surrounded by eager spectators, and the clever plays were heartly applauded. The Wrenn brothers won the toss and took the serve, "Bob" wielding the racket. Each side alternated in winning a game until eight games had been played, the Wrenns getting the first, a love game. The Dohertys captured the ninth game, which put them in the lead, 5—4. Then the Wrenns braced, and, on two places by "Bob", one by George, and Reginald Doherty's net ball, made it a love game. The English players then got down to work and won the next two games, the twelfth being a deuce. By points, the Dohertys won the set, 39 to 37. Sixteen of the Englishmen's points were made on placing, fifteen on their opponents' nets and eight on their outs. The Wrenns made thirteen on placing, fourteen on their opponents' nets and ten on their outs.

Sixteen games were necessary to decide the second set. The Wrenns won the first, a love game. The teams then alternated in winning games until eight had been played. The eighth and ninth went to the visitors, in succession, the tenth and eleventh to the Wrenns. The twelfth, a love game, went to the Dohertys, the thirteenth to the Americans, and the final three to the challenging team. Scoring by points, the Dohertys made forty-seven to their opponents' forty-one The challengers scored seventeen on placing, seventeen on their opponents' outs and thirteen o when the Neith, a toy game, which to the Americans, a shortest and the property of the Dobertys, the threenth to the Americans, as shortest and the property of the property o scored but six. Seven of the Americans points were made on the Englishmen's outs and six on their nets. The visitors scored ten points on outs and five on nets.

In the final set of the match there were several spirited games: the first was the best of the lot, the Wrenns taking it after a hard fight, 9 points to 7. The sixth game showed the Englishmen to be on their mettle.

Bob Wrenn was serving and the pair made to lot of the lot, the Wrenns taking it after a hard fight, 9 points to 7. The sixth game showed the Englishmen to be on their mettle.

Bob Wrenn was serving and the pair made to fine places by the elder Wrenn. Then the Wrenns got nervous and hit out twice, were passed at the net by the younger Doherty, drove into the net and were unable to return a well-placed shot by the younger Doherty, the Englishmen taking the game. The seventh game went to the Americans because of three nets and an out by the Dohertys. On points the Englishmen won, 33 to 28. The Wrenns scored ten places, made five points on outs and eleven on nets. The Dohertys scored on eleven places, seven outs by their rivals and fourteen on their nets. Only one double fault was scored in the first game of the fourth set.

All the events were keenly contested. No, disputes resulted except in the junior doubles in the second heat of which the Brockvilles, who were ahead of the Philadelphia crew, fouled the latter. Philadelphia entered a protest. In the junior fours Detroit fell off early to save Craig for the singles, who won in a tight finish by two feet after Coitson had led nearly all the way. The Detroit pair-oared crew were crowded outside the course by the Argonauts, who fouled them. The finals will be rowed off to-morrow, when the event of the regatta will be the contest between Titus and Scholes. The New York man is in fine shape and confident.

As the Western Golf Association championship winds up to-night, the Egans could be in Boston by Monday, and, as both snow the course, they would be ready to give a good account of themselves in the match The Intercollegiate Golf Association, at its annual meeting last winter, passed a resolution asking the United States Golf Association to arrange a match for the college boys against the visitors. It was then thought that the Egan cousins, one of whom has since won the intercollegiate championship, would be sure to play. There has never been any desire expressed by the Intercollegiate Association to have the aid of MANCHESTEE, Vt., Aug. 7.—The play for the First President's cup on the Ekwanok links was brought down to the semi-finals to-day. Walter J. Travis, N. Mallouf, F. J. O. Alsop and Paul Waterman are still left in the contest for the chief trophy. In the morning round Travis was down against John M. Ward. Travis was too strong for Ward and won by 5 up and 4 to play. Both men played a perfect game through the fair green. Ward, however, was off in his putting and this cost him the match. F. J. O. Alsop and A. M. Reed had the hardest contest of the day for a place in the semi-finals. The Yale golfer came out in the lead by two holes.

CLEVELAND. Aug. 7.—To-day the semi-finals for the Western amateur golf championship were played under favorable weather conditions and before a large "gallery." The results of the day's matches leave H. Chandler Egan and Walter Egan, his cousin, both from Chicago, and both Harvard men, to fight it outfor the championship. This is a repetition of last year's championship, which Chandler Egan won after thirty-seven holes from Walter. Both won their matches to-day after some brilliant and exceedingly close contests. Chandler defeated R. Russell of Detroit and Walter won from E. Brown of Cleveland, who put Louis James out yesterday.

RICHPISLD SPRINGS, Aug. 7.—Sunshine was welcomed at the Waontha links this afternoon. Rain the greater part of the week marred the tournament and necessitated a postponement of the 36-hole match between Maurice MacCarthy and Jack Jolly, the Southern professional. The best card today was a nine-hole match between B. U. Livingston, Jr., of Yale, and Willmot Lawrence Cole of New York. The score by strokes:

Philadelphian Cricketers Score Well in Game With Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 7.-Philadelphia cricketers won the toss this morning for their match with the All Halifax eleven, and in choosing to go in first they secured a decided advantage, as rain made the crease wet and the balls slippery, and while it was all right for batting the bowling was erratic. Jones and Foulkrod began the batting and scored rapidly, so that when the first wicket fell, that of Foulkrod, the partnership had accumulated 158 runs, of which Foulkrod accumulated 158 runs, of which Foulkrod had 62. Soon afterward Jones was bowled with 95 to his credit, then J. N. Brockie was bowled for 23.

In the afternoon the weather was better and the conditions, as between batters and bowlers, were more nearly equalized, and when stumps were drawn in the evening six wickets were down for a total of but 214.

Vice-Commodore R. G. Sharman-Crawford Arrives for the Cup Baces.

Vice-Commodore R. G. Sharman-Crawford of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, who is to sail on the Shamrock III. in the cup races, arrived yesterday on the White Star line steamer Germanic. Vice-Commodore Crawford said "The feeling in England is that the Shamrock III. will win the Cup this time. She is the best boat that has been sent after the Cup, and an very hopeful myself of the result of the races. The Reliance is undoubtedly a fine boat, and so is the Shamrock, so the races are bound to be interesting." boat, and so is the Shamrock, so the races are bound to be interesting.

Secretary Hugh C. Kelley and H. L. McGildowney, who with Vice-Commodore Crawford form the challenge committee of the Royal Ulster club, are expected to arrive to-day on the steamship Cedric. These gentlemen will meet the challenge committee of the New York Yacht Club next week and arrange the final details of the races.
